

Seeking Early Adjournment, Congress Rushes Vital Bills

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP)—With a burst of speed, congress today pushed the vital appropriation bills toward the White House, near an agreement on unemployment relief legislation, and slightly revived hopes for adjournment this week.

The slender hope of winding up the session by Saturday night was pinned entirely on reports to leaders from house and senate conferees on the relief bill that they were nearing an agreement that might receive President Hoover's approval.

The conferees themselves, however, indicated they were approaching a compromise in the $2,300,000,000 measure which would include the $500,000,000 public works program the president has disapproved.

Rapid fire progress on the big appropriation bills removed the fear that funds for running the government would not be available by Friday, the beginning of the new fiscal year.

Congress completed its work on the $982,000,000 independent offices bill and the $320,000,000 navy measure, sending them to the White House.

The only two bills that apparently were in danger of not reaching the White House on time were the war department measure, on which the deadline over retirement of 2,000 officers became more threatening, and the $112,000,000 measure carrying funds for the state, justice, commerce and labor departments. It was returned to conference by the house. It refused to accept a $300,000 allotment added by the senate for an air-

Son of Edison Favors Democrat and Repeal

DENVER, June 29.—(AP)—Charles Edison, son of the late Thomas A. Edison, said today a change in the present prohibitive laws is imperative and that he will vote for any democrat who is nominated for the presidency.

"I'm looking forward to a change in the liquor laws because I believe such a move will aid greatly in bringing about recovery in economic conditions," he said.

Edison is making an economic inspection tour of the United States.

Roosevelt who starts out with the support of Smith. Apparently one of the certainties of the convention is that no man identified with Smith in his defeatist movement can hope to square himself with the Roosevelt people if the New York governor should by any chance be deprived of the nomination.

Consequently there is a common saying around the halls of the vast Chicago stadium that the support of Smith is the "kiss of death." It has been enough to silence the former nominee, temporarily at least.

CLEVER COUP USED TO THWART SMITH

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. CHICAGO STADIUM, June 29.—Roosevelt leaders were credited with the cleverest coup of the democratic national convention today when, as a surprise move, they permitted to be adopted by the resolutions committee a plank on prohibition appeal in support of which the stop-Roosevelt group had planned to wage a vigorous fight on the floor.

Had the plank not been adopted by a majority of the committee and acquiesced in by the Roosevelt leaders, former Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, and those associated with him in his defeatist movement, would have brought in a minority report and through this means sought to bring about a greater line of cleavage between the two convention groups.

As it turned out, Governor Smith found himself in the unhappy position of being compelled to support the majority plank. If the situation had been different he, in all probability, would have taken the floor in an effort to split the Roosevelt forces. A mean fight would have ensued. Over-shadowing perhaps the bitterness engendered by the republicans during their earlier fight on the controversial issue.

The resolutions committee, which previously had adopted a milder plank, equally wet in its ultimate design, though slightly more acid in its immediate application, revised its majority report as the price of peace after Smith forces showed their hand. As a result the defeatist group was robbed of its greatest card.

While the new majority plank caused some dissatisfaction among certain of the delegations who hoped for a milder course, it was generally conceded by political observers that it will react favorably to Governor Roosevelt, opening the way for many of the heretofore hostile delegations from the west eastern centers to join the band wagon rush when it finally gets underway.

SMITH ADHERENTS CONCEDE DEFEAT

It is apparent, if the opposition attempted to follow the same procedure it would exhaust the list of offices before reaching the half-way mark of required delegates.

Under the circumstances it is difficult to see how the Roosevelt camp can fail to muster the difference between its present strength and two-thirds.

Whether such negotiations will result in enough votes to put the New York executive over on the first ballot remains to be seen. Out of deference to their obligation to the favorite sons the swing to Roosevelt may be deferred until a second or subsequent ballot. But the point of it all is that no one looking at the situation from a detached view can visualize the possibility of defeat. James Farley, Roosevelt manager, is sticking to his previous claim of a first-ballot nomination.

Perhaps the most interesting development of the last three days, covering the period the convention has actually been in session, is the marked silence of former Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, past nominee of the party and leader of the stop-Roosevelt movement. He has not uttered publicly a word of criticism against Roosevelt. In sharp contrast to his present reticence, before the convention met he was a vociferous critic and the vocal as well as actual leader of the anti-Roosevelt forces.

The explanation probably lies in the realization on the part of the opposing aspirants that too much Smith support of their aims means the "kiss of death." It takes a far stretch of the imagination to visualize the success of a favorite candidate over ner is the most logical choice west of the Mississippi for a place on the party ticket, and asserted his prestige had grown through his leadership of the house.

These friends felt that Garner's refusal to "make trades" in the convention fight did not indicate opposition to Roosevelt, but rather a determination not to attempt "delivery" of his 90 Texas and California delegates to any candidate.

On the contrary, they said, the unwavering support of these delegates places the speaker in a strong position for the second-place nomination, while for the first place, their usefulness would depend on development of a deadlock.

NORRIS CONFESSES DRY LAW FAILURE

experiment," Norris said, "we could give a different definition to intoxicating liquor by increasing the alcoholic content. That will enable congress to tax any beverage with an alcoholic content that comes below the definition."

Norris added that as a prohibitionist he had not been able to close his eyes to "the fact that the country seems to be the other way and that enforcement seems to be a failure."

Democratic opponents of prohibition were elated by the vote of the committee but party drys were reluctant to comment until the convention itself had acted.

Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas, co-author of the eighteenth amendment, said: "I don't wish to comment until I see the plank adopted by the convention."

Senator Fletcher, democrat, Florida: "It looks to me like a pretty good solution to the thing."

Senator Roussard, democrat, Louisiana: "It just comes to what I have been advocating."

Senator Hawes, democrat, Missouri: "Splendid. That's fine."

Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin: "There is nothing uncertain about that action."

In the house, a member advised Speaker Garner of what had occurred and brought word that Garner had expressed his satisfaction with the decision.

Only last week the speaker in a formal statement said the amendment "should be repealed."

Black told newspapermen he considered a declaration for repeal "absolutely assures democratic success."

Representative Cochran, democrat, Missouri, concurred, adding that "there is no pussyfooting here as in the republican platform."

President Hoover was informed of the action by friends, but there was no indication that he would have any comment.

Representative Schafer, republican, Wisconsin, challenged Speaker Garner to get "his democratic-controlled house to submit a repeal amendment at once."

"The speaker," Schafer said, "is now an ardent wet, although he voted for the Jones five-cent law, and from these Chicago reports it would seem his party has gone wet. How long will it be before the democrats quit just talking wet and begin voting that way?"

Schafer said if the democrats could not muster enough votes, "there are enough wet republicans on the other side to put the matter before the people."

Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, said: "I hope the democratic convention will adopt the plank favoring ultimate repeal and immediate modification. Furthermore, I hope congress will remain in session long enough after the adoption of this plank to permit those who really believe in repeal and immediate modification to make the suggestion of a change in the laws."

Bingham, who fought for adoption of a repeal plank by the republican convention, said he expected hereafter to have solid democratic support for his proposals except from Sheppard.

GEORGIA'S VOTE AGAINST REPEAL

delegation, Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., said prior to today's action by the platform committee of the national convention, however, that he saw no reason why people should be denied a vote on prohibition, but he felt the matter should be made secondary to economic questions. He said a straight repeal plank would be a mistake.

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, has the solid support of the Georgia delegation. Governor Russell has been chosen to second the nomination of Governor Roosevelt before the convention. The Georgia and New York governors are close friends. They have visited with each other frequently on Roosevelt's visits to his vacation cottage at Warm Springs, Ga. The two governors have dined together during each of these visits, either at Warm Springs, or at the Georgia governor's mansion in Atlanta.

Russell's selection to second Roosevelt's nomination was made, it was understood here, at the personal request of the New York governor.

The Georgia governor occupied the spotlight of the great convention hall today when he was introduced during a recess as the youngest governor in the United States. He was given a cheer by the delegates as he arose on the floor. The governor was attired in a white cotton suit, Georgia-made. Just when Governor Russell will get the floor for his seconding address was not definitely known. Alabama is to yield to New York for the nomination speech for Roosevelt.

The Arizona delegation has been asked to yield its alphabetical advantage and permit Georgia to present Mr. Russell.

A resolution from a member of the Georgia delegation, Erwin Sibley, of the tenth district, was submitted to the platform committee. It asked the party to go on record in favor of balancing the wealth of the country.

Sibley's resolution said the form of the American government contemplated equality between "man and man" and special privilege to none and made it offensive and repugnant for the existence of "present conditions."

He described these conditions as permitting the control by one family of "more wealth than the total amount of currency of our nation; of less than 150 people controlling over 90 per cent of the wealth; the accumulation of which is the fruits of the efforts of more than 120,000,000 fellow citizens; and of 500 individuals having an annual net income greater than the gross income of all the cotton and wheat farmers of these United States—which condition is the result of the abuse and exploitation and greed of a specially privileged few, permitted, protected, and encouraged under the regime of the republican party that has been in control of our government for the past decade."

Just how the Georgia delegation will vote on the prohibition and other issues has not been learned. While Governor Russell has said he felt a straight-out repeal plank would be unwise, Miss Stella Akin, of Savannah, secretary of the state democratic committee, favors a repeal plank.

F. T. Ralston, editor of the Selma Times-Journal, and J. J. Willett, of Anniston, with half a vote each, and F. B. Bricken, of Lurven, and Walter Brower, of Birmingham.

Previously several others had said they would vote for the repeal plank.

FLORIDIANS IN PARADE HELD FOR REPEAL PLANK

BY OLIVER S. MORTON.

CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP)—D. F. C. Robertson Sr., of Jacksonville, took Florida's standard into the milling throng tonight that greeted the reading of the democratic platform plank favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

He was closely followed by Val C. Cleary, Miami Beach mayor, who bore aloft Florida's flag, emblazoned with the state's insignia.

As the Floridians joined the big parade around the convention hall they came from between the North Carolina and Georgia delegations, both of which held their seats during the noisy demonstration.

Earlier the Florida vote in the committee had gone with 34 other states that favored a repeal recommendation, seven southern states, including Georgia and Alabama, had voted for submission of the prohibition question without a repeal recommendation.

After the demonstration was quieted Robert H. Anderson, of Jacksonville, was one of the speakers taking the platform in support of the majority report for repeal.

ALABAMA VOTES 21-3 FAVORING MINORITY REPORT

BY T. M. DAVENPORT.

CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP)—Alabama's delegation voted 21 to 3 tonight to support the minority substitute prohibition plank under discussion by the democratic national committee.

The delegation standard remained in its place during the demonstrations which accompanied debate on the prohibition question as more than 40 other states joined in the demonstration which greeted pleas for a repeal plank.

Four of the Alabama delegates with three votes cast their ballots in favor of the majority report. They were

GERMANY CHANGES REPARATIONS VIEW

Ultimate Accord in Prospect Between Von Papen and French Stand.

BY MELVIN K. WHITELEATHER.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, June 29. (AP)—After the reparations conflict between France and Germany had reached its high point today with a forthright demand by Chancellor Franz von Papen that the Versailles treaty be revised to eliminate all discriminations against Germany, there was evidence of a possible eventual agreement.

The French, who were greatly displeased by the declaration for treaty revision, reported that the German chancellor modified his tone in subsequent discussions.

There even was an unconfirmed report that the Germans, who have insisted that reparations must be cancelled, had agreed in principle to the payment of at least the something. This development modified the pessimism of last night when the belief was general that the Franco-German conflict would force adjournment of the Lausanne conference without any accomplishment whatever.

Concrete proposals to Germany to settle the reparations issue were being drafted tonight by a committee composed of the representatives of the six leading powers and headed by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain. The other powers participating were France, Germany, Italy, Belgium and Japan.

One of the factors contributing to the lessening of the tension was Chancellor von Papen's explanation to the French that in calling for revision of the Versailles treaty he did not mean it must take place before the issues of reparations and economic reconstruction had been discussed.

Chancellor von Papen said if Germany were to contribute her utmost toward restoring world confidence such clauses as those in the Versailles treaty which discriminate against Germany must be abolished.

FRENCH SWING TOWARD HOOVER'S ARMS PLAN

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 29. (AP)—Evidence appeared here tonight that the French cabinet was becoming more favorably disposed toward President Hoover's plan to reduce the armaments of the world by nearly one-third.

The American delegation said it was impressed with the French desire to co-operate and apparently mounting sentiment in France for a "genuine reduction in armaments."

Meanwhile, the British position remained uncertain, with evidence of a split in the cabinet still acting as a brake on immediate British action on the Hoover proposal.

ECONOMIC CONFERENCE USELESS, SAYS BORAH

WASHINGTON, June 29. (AP)—Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, told the senate today that since efforts at the Lausanne conference to settle the Franco-German reparations question appear to have broken down it would be useless to hold the world economic conference planned for this year. The Idahoan said the world can "get nowhere" in solving its economic problems "until the reparations question is settled."

PLANS ARE PERFECTED FOR BIG A. M. E. MEET

Plans for the largest congregation of young colored people in the history of the church have been perfected by Bishop W. A. Fountain and the executive committee of the African Methodist Episcopal church, and everything is in readiness for the tri-continental convention to be held at Big Bethel A. M. E. church in Atlanta August 16-22. It was announced Wednesday night. Approximately 8,000 delegates will attend the convention, it was announced. Dr. R. T. Babcock is secretary of the executive committee.

This convention represents the three religious activities of the membership of the state—the state Sunday school work, the state missionary work and the Allen Christian Endeavor League movement.

"Training for Service" will be the theme of special workers. Two special entertainments will feature this occasion—the improved "Heaven Bound," on Tuesday night at the city auditorium, and the choir of the state in a singing contest on Friday night at Big Bethel A. M. E. church, where the convention will be held.

Bishop Fountain announced the following ministerial changes in appointments: Dr. R. J. Jefferson, to Allen temple; Rev. R. C. Foley, to Turner chapel, Atlanta; Rev. Paul Fountain, to Cobb Bethel, and Dr. W. J. Jones as presiding elder of the Griffin district.

REGENTS DEFENDED BY ALUMNI RECORD

The May-June issue of the Georgia Alumni Record, which is now out, defends the recently established board of regents against the adverse criticism that has been leveled against it. The Record states that in the six months that the board has existed it has saved the taxpayers of Georgia nearly a half million dollars.

The magazine is issued six times a year. The present issue contains the new appointments in the college which have been made under the new university system, and also on the board of regents, the happenings that took place in Athens on Alumni Day, and notes about some of the alumni.

Father Duffy of 'Fighting 69th' Paid Final Tribute in New York

BY JOHN M. MARTYN.

NEW YORK, June 29. (UP)—They buried Father Duffy, of the "Fighting Sixty-ninth" today, and New York, which he called the friendliest city in the world, paid a tremendous tribute to his memory.

From Holy Cross church, over in Hell's Kitchen, to the great Gothic cathedral of St. Patrick's, the impressive cortege moved slowly through deep lanes of Father Duffy's friends.

Along the way women wept and men stood, bareheaded. Only the muffled beat of horses' hoofs, the creaking of the caisson wheels and the sharp jingle of the harness broke the stillness that had fallen suddenly on the crowd.

Father Duffy's chestnut horse, "Captain," walked behind the caisson which bore the flag-draped casket, boots were reversed in stirrups and the horse—Father Duffy's mount for the last nine years—paced slowly along, head drooping, as though he knew something big had gone out of his life.

High ranking military men walked beside leading dignitaries of church and state in what was the greatest display of grief and affection ever accorded, perhaps, to a humble parish priest who loved, and was loved by, his fellow men.

And hats were removed as the caisson rumbled along, through mid-Manhattan, past "the crossroads of the world" at Times Square, into Fifth avenue where the cathedral stands.

Fully 5,000 persons were jammed into the big church, and thousands more gathered in the street outside. The press was so great that extra police were needed, and two ambulances were kept close by in case of accident or illness.

Three bands—that of the Sixty-ninth, in mufti, and those from the police and fire departments—played dirges along the way: Chopin's funeral march, "Nearer My God to Thee."

WORK OF DRY AGENTS LAUDED BY WOODCOCK

Prohibition Director Says Men Are Doing Job Honestly and Fearlessly.

WASHINGTON, June 29. (AP)—The second anniversary of prohibition enforcement under the justice department finds Amos W. W. Woodcock, the director, of the opinion his agents are "doing an admittedly difficult task honestly, earnestly and lawfully."

He said today he thought "there has been vast improvement in morale, conduct, training and efficiency" in the prohibition bureau's personnel.

Woodcock's figures showed that only 10 per cent of the persons tried for violations of the prohibition law escaped some punishment during the first 11 months of this fiscal year.

The bureau became a part of the justice department July 1, 1930.

Arrests during the first 11 months were 82,242 compared with 76,540 the previous year. Criminal cases terminated numbered 74,362, with 66,208 convictions of

Lindy's Attempt To Brave Ocean for Baby Is Related

BY WILLIAM A. KINNEY.
FLEMINGTON, N. J., June 29.—(AP)—A story of how Charles A. Lindbergh tried to jump into a stormy sea to swim to a boat on which he believed his kidnapped son was held was related at the John Hughes Curtis trial today.

The flyer smiled broadly as the hitherto untold episode came to light. Seated at the prosecution table, he turned to whisper a laughing remark to a neighbor.

W. E. Haskell, business executive of the New York Herald-Tribune and a prosecution witness, said Curtis told him the story. The Norfolk boat builder is charged with obstructing justice in the search for the Lindbergh baby.

"He said they sighted a boat but high seas prevented getting close," Haskell related. "He said they had to restrain Colonel Lindbergh from jumping overboard to swim to the other ship."

Haskell also testified that Curtis, when he visited him in his cell there after his confession to hoarding his part in the search, insisted he actually had been in touch with the kidnapers and typed the boat confession "just to get some sleep."

High Spots of Day. That statement and the vague testimony of a federal operative about an interview he had with an unnamed man on information supplied by Curtis, were high spots in the trial's third day.

Frank J. Wilson, the federal investigator, who checked up on some of Curtis' stories, declined to give the man's name, saying he had not intended talking to him at the time he did and he feared the interview jeopardized the chance of capturing the kidnapers and murderers of the baby.

"Is this man suspected of being implicated in the kidnapping?" demanded Lloyd Fisher, defense attorney.

"No," replied Wilson, "but he is in touch with others."

"If you disclosed this man's name would it affect the people he is in touch with?"

"I think it would."

Name Withheld. Judge Adam Robins upheld Wilson's refusal to give the man's name. Wilson was one of the revenue department's special agents who gathered the evidence which placed Al Capone in Atlanta penitentiary.

Questions then were shot at him in rapid-fire order, but they left Wilson untruffled.

"Do you know who kidnaped Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr.?" came the first.

"No," said Wilson.

BRITAIN WILL DROP VIOLET SHARPE PROBE

LONDON, June 29.—(AP)—There will be no representations by the British government to the United States in connection with the death of Violet Sharpe, parliament was informed today.

The under secretary for foreign affairs said the consul general at New York had reported on the death of the servant girl who committed suicide in the morning home at Englewood, N. J., after questioning by police in connection with the Lindbergh kidnapping.

"Having regard to all the circumstances in this case," he said, "there would appear to be no grounds which would warrant representations to the United States government."

The consul general is satisfied there was no physical violence or "so-called third-degree methods" employed by the police in their questioning, he said, and that the girl was not questioned under conditions of severe physical strain induced by lack of sleep or want of food.

THE FOX WILL RETURN VOLUNTARILY FOR TRIAL

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP)—Norman Whitaker, "The Fox," who is accused of posing as the Lindbergh baby kidnaper while Gaston B. Means swindled Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean of $104,000, waived examination today and agreed to go to Washington for trial.

Whitaker, who will leave for Washington Friday, is charged with conspiracy and grand larceny. Means is in the penitentiary.

GEORGIA MARBLE TO BE USED BY U. S. FOR ATLANTA P. O.

In Georgia because of the change at approximately $300,000.

"Colonel S. M. Tate, of the Georgia Marble Company," he said "is to be commended highly for his offer to donate the stone in order to keep the cost within the appropriations figure."

LeCraw Expresses Pleasure. Roy LeCraw, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, which organization sponsored the fight for the use of Georgia marble, expressed extreme pleasure that the agreement was reached.

"Despite discouragement in the past," he said, "the Chamber of Commerce never gave up and we felt that in the windup of affairs the new building would be made of Georgia marble."

In many respects the agreement of the Great Lakes Construction Company and the treasury department to use marble is a vindication of products of this state. Marble is more durable, beautiful and suitable for building work than limestone.

To all those—especially Representative Crisp—who have aided us in our fight we extend our sincerest thanks and admiration. Judge Crisp demonstrated by his sustained efforts that he has the interest of Georgia and Georgians at heart.

Others whom we wish especially to thank are Colonel Tate for heroically meeting the low price necessary to bring the cost to within the appropriations figure; Representative Robert Ramspeck, Senator Walter P. George and the contracting representatives here in Atlanta. All have worked manfully to bring about the final result.

Mr. LeCraw said that he could see no possibility of any last-minute hitch and that he felt complete assurance that all parties concerned—surety companies and the comptroller general—would approve the agreement between the treasury department and the contractors.

GEORGE'S AMENDMENT AIDS COTTON PRODUCTS

Provisions Will Enable South To Compete With New England Twine Makers.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—As the result of an amendment offered by Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, to the pending treasury and post-office appropriations bill, southern cotton producers and manufacturers will be given an excellent chance of getting away from jute twine makers of the domestic article where the raw material of which it is made is grown in the United States and the article itself is manufactured in the United States.

The amendment, which was agreed to by the senate and sent to conference between the two houses, provides that in awarding twine contracts "special consideration shall be given to the domestic article where the raw material of which it is made is grown in the United States and the article itself is manufactured in the United States."

As a result of being consistently outbid by New England jute twine makers, southern cotton twine manufacturers have been put at a serious disadvantage in seeking contracts from the postoffice department. Last year complaints were registered by cotton twine manufacturers of North Carolina with postoffice department officials on the ground that they could not compete with jute twine makers of New England who import their jute from East India at low cost.

In offering his amendment Senator George said "if it is accepted it would not be obligatory upon the postoffice department, for instance, to use cotton products even where there was no unreasonable difference in cost between the domestic article and the manufactured product but it would, of course, write into the law that if the article which the department desired to buy was made of raw materials grown in the United States and if the article itself was manufactured in the United States."

After Curtis had typed his hoax confession Haskell said he was much puzzled and visited Curtis in jail.

"Now that it is all over," he said he asked Curtis, "tell me, were you ever in touch with the kidnapers?"

"Yes, the story is still to be told. It's in Norfolk," he quoted Curtis as replying.

But Harry Stout, special assistant prosecutor, brought out that the court held the pictures were not material in any case.

A few days before the baby's body was discovered in the woods not far from the Lindbergh home, Haskell said Curtis told him: "Alex and I are going to drop a bombshell that will startle the world in a few days."

Colonel Lindbergh smiled faintly, and met Haskell's glance as the latter explained "Alex" was the name Curtis said the kidnapers used in referring to the flyer.

WITNESSES REVEAL MORE NICKNAMES FOR DAVID HUTTON

LOS ANGELES, June 29.—(AP)—Additional uncomplimentary references to David Hutton, which witnesses said were voiced by Myrtle St. Pierre prior to her $200,000 breach of promise suit against the husband of Aimee Sample Hutton, the evangelist, were entered today in the court records.

Counsel for Hutton skipped quickly through a group of witnesses and announced that when the preliminary testimony was completed, Hutton would take the stand to repudiate the broken love story of the nurse.

To rebid names which defense witnesses claimed Miss St. Pierre used in describing the evangelist's husband, another was added today when Mrs. Lillian Benjamin testified that she heard the nurse refer to him as a "pudding head."

One of the first witnesses today, Mrs. Gladys Cassill, sister of Miss St. Pierre, related a fight between herself and the nurse which ended in a "knockout" for Miss St. Pierre.

Mrs. Cassill said she threw a goldfish bowl when her sister accused her of an amorous episode with George Street, to whom the nurse was married at the time.

"She knocked me out cold" after ducking the bowl, the witness said.

Yeast Vitamins, Iron and Copper Enrich Blood

New, Scientific Treatment Increases Vital Red Corpuscles, Corrects Digestion, Clears System of Impurities.

The blood is the life of the body, and scientists hail with enthusiasm the recent discovery that copper, in scientific combination with yeast vitamins and iron, possesses astonishing power to increase the vital, health-building red corpuscles of the blood stream. It furnishes a new and wonderful treatment for combatting malnutrition, nervous and physical exhaustion, and impoverished, anemic conditions of the blood and tissues.

The new treatment—Thor's Vitamin Compound of yeast vitamins, iron and copper—often accomplishes beneficial results in a few days that formerly took weeks or even months of tedious treatment.

Thor's Vitamin Compound promotes an increase in the vigorous, disease-resisting red corpuscles of the blood, strengthens and tones the intestinal tract, and enables the system to throw off accumulated impurities that cause a weak, tired-out, nervous condition.

Next, it restores the appetite for wholesome, nourishing food which builds firm flesh and tissue. Digestive disturbances, auto-intoxication, malnutrition, constipation, and sleeplessness quickly disappear, and the nervous system is strengthened by nature's own method of improved circulation and increased metabolism.

Weak, thin, nervous people usually show a gratifying gain in weight, and a feeling of buoyant health, strength and confidence quickly replaces the former condition of weakness, nervousness and discouragement.

Thor's Vitamin Compound of yeast vitamins, iron and copper may be obtained at all drug stores for only fifty cents, and is sold under the positive guarantee that it will bring a gratifying improvement in health within one week or your money will be cheerfully refunded.—(adv.)

MISSISSIPPI TEACHERS GET BACK SALARIES

JACKSON, Miss., June 29.—(P)—Nearly 500 vocational instructors scattered through 80 Mississippi counties learned today that back salary checks totaling $135,000 had been mailed from the office of F. J. Hubbard, state director of vocational education. The checks were reimbursement for salaries from July 1, 1931, to January 1, 1932, Hubbard said. Of the total, $90,000 was drawn from federal funds and the remaining $45,000 from state funds.

25-Year-Old Stowaway
Makes 25,000-Mile Flight

NEW YORK, June 29.—(P)—A 25-year-old stowaway made a 25,000-mile flight from Cristobal to Miami, Fla., in the tail of a 22-passenger flying boat, the Pan-American Airways announced today. The stowaway, Paul Kaiser, a German, was discovered yesterday morning when the boat landed at the airport base in Florida after a 48-hour flight. He had not eaten in two days and was in a weakened condition.

Dance To Go On Despite Attacks, Women Charity Workers Assert

Despite a grand jury probe of "charity rackets," which followed demand of Mayor James L. Key that his name be stricken from the women's division of the emergency relief commission because commissions are being paid for sale of tickets to a charity dance, Mrs. M. H. Margeson, head of the women's department, said the dance will be staged as scheduled.

Mrs. Margeson's decision came on the heels of a caustic letter which she directed to Key in which she charged the men's division of the relief commission were fighting the women's work. She criticized the mayor for his stand, and flayed those who complained about the work of the committee. Her letter was a challenge to those who are fighting the proposed dance to put up the money for the work "and we will abandon our plans for it."

Key and City Attorney James L. Mayson Wednesday appeared before the Fulton county grand jury in an inquisition into alleged charity rackets, but Solicitor-General John A. Boykin would make no statement at the present time. He has repeatedly scored what he termed rackets operating along the same lines, and there is every probability that he will ask that grand jury presentments, expected Friday, may deal with the matter.

Executive attention to the fact that commissions are being paid to ticket sellers for the dance and for solicitors of funds by telephone, amounting, it was said, to 25 per cent of the former work, and 10 per cent for the latter, was made through members of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association, of which L. L. Austin is secretary. Frank H. Neely, president of the Community Chest, wrote the first letter concerning the matter, and the mayor immediately followed it with a communication to J. R. Sasser, promoter, said to be in charge of the dance.

It was pointed out Wednesday at the mayor's office that promotion of the dance or any other such enterprise where commissions are paid to solicitors requires a councilman's permit, which has not been obtained, and there appeared every probability that police action may result if plans for the projected charity are pushed. Mrs. Margeson said the mayor's name will be stricken from the committee and that it will proceed just as the women's relief commission, carrying out the original intention of the commission to promote the dance to raise charity funds.

13-MONTH CALENDAR IS GROWING IN USE

Without waiting for the slow action of governments, more and more business concerns are quietly adopting the 13-month calendar, long advocated for adoption by international agreement. Strictly speaking, it is not at present a thirteen-month calendar, but a thirteen-period calendar, the periods consisting of four weeks each without regard for the months of the regular calendar, and used as far as possible as the basis of business records and operations.

The reason for the thirteen-period calendar's increasing use is that business executives are learning, from the experience of those who first took the calendar bull by the horns, that business accountability and management by four-week periods pays. They have learned that it is possible for their accountants to tell them the story of their company's past performance more accurately than by the civil calendar, to show more truly the trend of its business, and enable them to budget the year without danger of unpleasant surprises caused by the civil calendar's unequal months and their changing number of business days.

A census of business concerns in the United States and abroad that have now adopted four-week periods as the basis of their accounting and internal transactions, including pay rolls, is being taken by the International Fixed Calendar League. It is known that in this country more than 140 large manufacturing, merchandising and publishing companies have adopted this system within the last six years, which with those known to have previously been using it, makes an American list well over 200. It is certain that the number will exceed this when the census is compiled, and that it will be still further enlarged by concerns which have decided to begin using it in 1933. A similar growth has been in evidence in Germany and England; in fact, in all the industrial countries, the sale of 13-period calendar users has steadily increased.

Uses of System. Sears, Roebuck & Co., the Eastman Kodak Company, the American Hide and Leather Company, the Fuller Brush Company, the Western Clock Company, the American Gas Machine Company, Carter's Ink Company, Kottex Company, Jewel Tea Company, Hotel New Yorker, Kroger Grocery and Baking Company, Loew's theaters, the Hearst Publications, and most of the country's paper mills are among concerns which have adopted this auxiliary calendar in the United States. An outstanding example abroad is the British Railways which, with the governments approval, compile and report their operating revenues on the basis of four-week periods, disregarding the regular calendar months.

As is well known, efforts to secure the adoption of a simplified calendar by agreement among the nations have been in progress for a decade. The governments have deferred action for reasons to be noted later, but in the meantime the rapid growth in the use of the 13-period system as an auxiliary calendar promises the establishment in the business world of a de facto reform before the official and universal reform is accomplished.

Standard Time's Example. It was in this manner, after 13 years of educational effort and two years of active use by the railroads of the United States and Canada, that Standard Time was finally adopted by international agreement at Washington in 1884, despite religious objections from extremists who held that man had no right to change "God's time."

A change in the calendar is, of course, a greater proposition, demanding a more comprehensive change of people's habits, and also subject to the same sort of unreasoning religious opposition; but nevertheless history seems to be repeating itself in the bringing about of the change through actual use of the 13-period system by the world of business.

HOLDER WILL SPEAK
HERE NEXT MONDAY

John N. Holder, candidate for governor, will not deliver a political speech on July 4 but will deliver a non-political address at a reunion of Methodists to be held in Grant park in Atlanta. The Methodists are all former members of churches served by Rev. B. F. Fraser, veteran minister. This reunion is an annual event with the Methodists and besides Mr. Holder many other prominent Methodist laymen will take part in the program.

People will come to the reunion from several southern states. The local Methodists bring baskets and give picnic dinners.

After Mr. Holder's speech a special song service will be held. Many other interesting events are scheduled on the program.

DRIVER OF DEATH CAR FACES TRIAL SATURDAY

Harry Verner, 19, of 410 Kelly street, will be given a preliminary trial in police court at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in connection with the death Tuesday of Policeman James M. B. Goode, 62, who was struck and killed on DeKalb avenue by an automobile driven by Verner. The car which was responsible for Goode's death was a racing machine which Verner had intended entering in the auto speed contests at Lakewood July 4.

Verner is charged with speeding, reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Funeral services for Patrolman Goode were held Wednesday afternoon at the Epworth church at Congress. Interment was in the Congregational cemetery.

COMPLETE DETAILS OF DEBATE ON PROHIBITION PLANK

Roosevelt Leaders Observe Neutrality In Long Night Fight

CHICAGO, Ill., June 29.—(AP)—The convention came together slowly in the warm evening, after an hour and a half afternoon session that devoted itself to entertainment when it found no business could be done because of the jam in the platform committee.

The delegates had to decide whether to back the vote of their resolutions committee for the repeal plank. The intensity of feeling on both sides brought to the night session the greatest and most vociferous of the politically minded crowd that have filled this spreading stadium.

Aside from the prohibition disagreement, none of major proportions was expected on the statement of party principles and promises—the shortest document of its kind on record, less than 1,000 words.

An hour before the stadium was to open, crowds pressed in front of the main entrance doors. There as well as among the delegates the customary speculation ran as to the nomination of the latest Roosevelt claim—by Manager James A. Farley—being 600 votes on the first ballot and a turn before the roll is closed by the favorite-sound votes to give the 770 two-thirds.

Farley refrained from active participation tonight, having announced earlier that the Roosevelt position was that "every delegate is free to vote as he sees fit."

The scheduled hour for starting—7 o'clock—passed with the galleries filling but the delegates slow as ever.

One of the first arrivals on the speakers' platform, as booming bandsmen in a high corner gave the organization a rest, was Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Omaha, Neb., looking played out from his labors as head of the platform construction.

Limit on Debate Sought.
Efforts were being made to get an agreement on limiting debate, but it wasn't easy.

Other disputes were looming, with William Gibbs McAdoo packing in a minority plank calling for measures to protect depositors in member banks of the federal reserve system against loss.

"Alfalfa Bill" Murray. The Oklahoma governor, who has state economy plank—by bimetalism and payment of the bonus, among other things.

He wandered through the aisles hatless and chewing the usual cigar while slowly the 3,000 red chairs on the floor filled.

It was hot in the hall—a good many of the delegates were in their sleeves. Noisemaking Ammunition.

For the first time a liberal supply of demonstration-making ammunition was lugged in. It seemed almost every other delegate was equipped with some sort of noise-making device in preparation for the expected parading of the evening.

Broad beams from the setting sun poured through the high windows to light the scene.

"Strictly hands off." was the cry of the Roosevelt organization, although its leaders from the start had been working to restrict the prohibition plank to submission of a repeal amendment to the constitution.

White Governor Roosevelt himself is on record for repeal, the platform subcommittee controlled by his friends returned a compromise proposal.

After the resolutions committee, at the behest of Senator David Walsh, of Massachusetts, repudiated.

Senator Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, carried the attempt to have the subcommittee plank accepted to the convention floor. Senator Josiah W. Bailey was with him.

Reed Upholds Repeal Side.
Walsh, aided by Al Smith, also arranged for the driving plank to be held in the debate of former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, and Senator Robert J. Bulkley, of Ohio.

Senators Walsh and Hull agreed for a limitation of debate to an hour for each side, then left the convention officials to polish their plans.

ended proposing a league of states for conservation of oil.

McAdoo Plank Read.
Then, Pat Hattigan, the reading clerk of the house of representatives in Washington, read the McAdoo minority plank calling for "enactment of effective measures to make safe against loss depositors in member banks of the federal reserve system."

Little attention was paid to this. Walsh announced plans for the two-hour prohibition debate and to give Governor Murray half an hour and McAdoo 15 minutes.

Resolutions Group Votes For Repeal Plank, 35 to 17

Strength of Repeal Element Surprises Even Senator Walsh, Who Led Drive Against Submission Plan.

CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP)—Amazing numbers of the delegates, the democratic platform committee voted 35 to 17 this afternoon to pledge the party to prohibition repeal and Volstead modification—but stubborn opposition in the convention proper barred the road to that commitment.

Early in the day, James A. Farley—its head mogul here—said the New York governor "has no prohibition plank" and it was "the right of every delegate to vote as he sees fit on the prohibition issue."

Difficultly encountered by the platform committee in getting in agreement for the repeal plank, the question of that plank had been through an hour and a half of political speech-making, entertainment and pleasant conversation in the afternoon waiting vainly for the resolutions to be perfected and brought to the floor.

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, introduced the repeal plank and left the committee room expressing his own satisfaction at the result.

The full committee vote on the plank pledging the party to repeal prohibition was as follows:

Alabama, 24 votes; 21 aye, 3 no. Arizona, 6 votes; 6 aye, 0 no.

Arkansas, 18 votes; 13 aye, 5 no. California, 44 votes; 11 aye, 33 no.

Colorado, 12 votes; 11 aye, 1 no. Connecticut, 16 votes; 14 aye, 2 no.

Delaware, 6 votes; 4 aye, 2 no. Florida, 14 votes; 1 aye, 13 no.

Georgia, 28 votes; 28 aye, 0 no. Illinois, 58 votes; 38 no, 20 aye.

Indiana, 30 votes; 30 no, 0 aye. Idaho, 8 votes; 8 no, 0 aye.

Iowa, 22 votes; 20 no, 2 aye. Kansas, 20 votes; 12 aye, 8 no.

Kentucky, 26 votes; 26 no, 0 aye. Louisiana, 20 votes; 3 aye, 17 no.

Maine, 12 votes; 2 aye, 10 no. Maryland, 16 votes; 16 no, 0 aye.

Massachusetts, 36 votes; 36 no, 0 aye. Michigan, 34 votes; 34 no, 0 aye.

Minnesota, 24 votes; 4 aye, 18 no. Missouri, 36 votes; 11 aye, 25 no.

Montana, 8 votes; 8 no, 0 aye. Nebraska, 16 votes; 5 aye, 9 no.

Conventionalities In Chicago Arena

CHICAGO, June 29.—John J. Raskob, one of the movers and shakers of the democratic party, today was among the box-lunch picnickers at the convention.

Raskob consumed a sandwich as he listened to the long list of extemporaneous performers killing time while they waited for the platform to come in.

He might just as well have dined in state—for nothing came of it. The session adjourned to get the platform at a later hour.

It's a happy reunion as well as a democratic convention for at least two of the prominent women who are taking part in the proceedings in the big stadium. Mrs. Robert C. Watts, of Lynchburg, Va., and Mrs. Daisy McLaurin Stevens, of Mississippi, sisters are national committeewomen from their respective states and all the talking they do on the platform is not about who will be nominated.

There was much talk of William Jennings Bryan today at breakfast where members of his family and friends gathered.

Joseph Daniels recalled "the Commoner" famous record of gold price in 1896 and said: "Some North Carolinians are still voting for Bryan."

Conventions sides de camp campaign of depression badges, which are of tin or something equally pliable, and wouldn't make a social dent at the fireman's ball.

"Employ" on a badge covers a multitude of sins. Once you've cranked wearing the badge, you can claim you are a janitor's valet, a ventilation expert, a keynote tuner, an acoustical masseuse, a friend of the colored man, a master of the (sandwich) bounds.

Nine artificial suns glare down upon states' favorite sons.

Besides Virgin Islanders, there won't stop milling even when the chairman threatens to have the aisle cleared by the police department, militia and a bunch of tag day collectors.

"great awakening has come to America" and the "demand for repeal has sprung over the country like wildfire."

"It is therefore a duty which we must not shrink to restore the right to regulate the liquor traffic in the several states where it truly belongs, he said."

Wildfire is raging in every state, district, county, city, town and village except in the halls of congress, for an unaccountable reason, ears tattered to popular whisper are deaf to the clamor for repeal.

From the viewpoint of the Iowa farmer, the repeal plank is a demand for a market for his corn. He is the farmer of Iowa and the middle west has come to a realization that the welfare of his own family is in the hands of the states which are the dietetic habits of the residents of New York and the taste for beverages of the citizens of Chicago, he said.

In addition to providing employment for the unemployed, the beer plank is the pledge of the democratic party to the farmers of the middle west by providing a much needed market for their grain.

The first sentence of the majority plank, "we favor the repeal of the 18th amendment," is the pledge of the dry states of the union (if any there be) to the states which are the dietetic habits of the residents of New York and the taste for beverages of the citizens of Chicago, he said.

The minority plank is an honest one, but it is not a courageous one and therefore not a democratic one. It says we will permit you to vote, but we may vote against you when we vote.

"Happy Warrior" Speaks.
A gavel bang closed his time, and then came "the happy warrior"—Alfred E. Smith, bringing a wild shout that made the rafters ring as he hopped in the galleries and thousands of those on the floor and in the boxes stood in a piercing demonstration.

Shouts of approval greeted the solid votes of 94 by New York and 76 by Pennsylvania for advocating repeal, while catcalls and hisses were the return that the vote of 22 by Oklahoma on the submission side got.

Texas and South Carolina were two of the states that went solidly for the extreme plank.

Votes still impended on other planks and on adopting the platform as a whole, but the tired delegates—who had been at it in the stuffy stadium for more than five hours—already were going home when the repeal roll call had been almost completed.

By then it was evident the margin would be much more tremendous than even the most hopeful of those who put the plank across in the platform committee had dreamed.

Many more hours of session awaited them later today, numerous nominating and seconding speeches having to come before balloting is reached, probably tonight.

Just before the vote, Ritchie said off more roars of approval in saying "I haven't the heart to keep you any longer from having a chance to vote for repeal."

His supporters and those for Smith in the nomination hunt seized upon their appearances on the speakers' platform to set off demonstrations, while the Roosevelt partisans clung to their chairs.

"great awakening has come to America" and the "demand for repeal has sprung over the country like wildfire."

"It is therefore a duty which we must not shrink to restore the right to regulate the liquor traffic in the several states where it truly belongs, he said."

Wildfire is raging in every state, district, county, city, town and village except in the halls of congress, for an unaccountable reason, ears tattered to popular whisper are deaf to the clamor for repeal.

From the viewpoint of the Iowa farmer, the repeal plank is a demand for a market for his corn. He is the farmer of Iowa and the middle west has come to a realization that the welfare of his own family is in the hands of

Atlanta Department Stores Lead in Volume of Business

Retail Trade Above Average for District, Bank Survey Shows; Building Contracts Show Increase

Department store trade in Atlanta continued more than one-third larger than the average for stores in other cities in the sixth federal reserve district for May, according to the monthly business survey by the Atlanta reserve bank, released Wednesday.

Gains in May over April were reported in building contract awards, life insurance sales and member bank borrowings, though retail and wholesale trade and textile mill activity were off from figures of the previous month as well as for the same month one year ago.

In line with stabilization trends was the falling off in wholesale prices, which were 1.7 per cent lower than in April, while employment in automobile plants and seasonal food industries showed a gain. Factory employment showed a slight decrease. Agricultural conditions were varied due to droughts in certain sections of the district, but recent rains in several dry areas indicated an upward trend in conditions. Conditions for peaches in Georgia continued to improve and additional blooms were reported.

While contract awards for building gained in May over April, building permit totals for May were less than for April, in which month the total was the largest since November.

Sales in newly paid-for life insurance increased in May over April by 2.1 per cent.

The total volume of reserve bank credit outstanding at the federal reserve bank in Atlanta increased by nearly $42,000,000 between May 4 and June 8, the increase being attributed to increase in discounts for member banks and to the banks' participation in the federal reserve system's purchase of United States government securities.

CHARITY SEEKERS VISIT COURTHOUSE; NO AID AVAILABLE

Fifty marchers whose leaders claimed that "there are 500 more unemployed cotton mill workers where these came from" Wednesday morning called at the Fulton county courthouse with a request for relief, only to be met by the statement that the county has no funds available for charitable purposes.

Circular letters advertising an unemployment relief meeting at 10 o'clock this morning at the courthouse were distributed Wednesday by the "unemployment committee of Atlanta."

The unemployed men who visited the courthouse Wednesday were met by Henry M. Wood, clerk of the county commission, who said that county funds for emergency relief have been exhausted. Part of the delegation next called at the office of Commissioner Walter C. Hendrix, who told them that the county can do nothing for them with its present income. The office of Dr. W. L. Gilbert, commissioner, also was visited, but Dr. Gilbert was away.

TWITTY WILL LAUNCH HIS CAMPAIGN TODAY

Peter S. Twitty, candidate for governor, will make his platform address at Dublin today, in which he is to set forth the principles on which he will go before the people in the democratic primary of September 14.

Twitty, a former mayor of Dublin, who resigned that post to enter the World War, returns at the request of friends to deliver his first major address of the campaign. Twitty is the present state commissioner of game and fish.

He is to return to Atlanta the latter part of the week to set up campaign headquarters. His campaign so far has been handled by friends.

Actress Fined.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP)—Two glasses of wine to celebrate the birth of twins—her grandchildren—cost Mrs. Corinne Faye, 29, an actress of New York and Miami, Fla., a fine of $25 or the alternative of five days in jail. A magistrate in traffic court found her guilty of driving her automobile while intoxicated. He also revoked her driving license.

Skillful--Useful Kilowatt Hours

on the bargain counter!

When electric service can add so much to life in the home and costs so little—it seems a wonder that anyone would be without its many joys. And especially now, when bargains are not only frequent necessities, but are actually the vogue.

Average rates for electric service in homes served by this Company are far below the national average. They have been reduced steadily, even during the boom years when prices of food, clothing, rent and other commodities were shooting to sky-high levels. They are lower right now than they ever have been at any time.

As use of the service increases, your rate for energy drops from five to three and then as low as two cents a kilowatt hour!

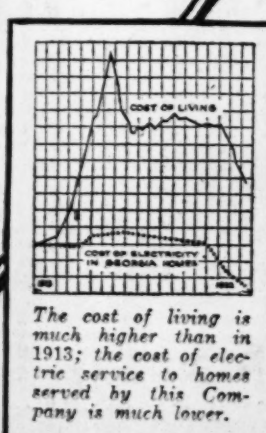

And one kilowatt hour will light a 50-watt lamp for 20 hours; or operate a sewing machine for 20 hours; or a grill for 1 2/3 hours; or a toaster for 2 hours; or a radio for 12 hours; or a vacuum cleaner for 6 hours.

Where else will pennies—mere pennies—buy so much? All of us can afford the new ease which wise use of electric service brings to life.

It's a bargain too good to neglect!

Recess Balked Nomination Of Will Rogers, Says Gloom

Hoosier Democrat Warns Convention Against Naming "Easy Mark"
Like Ritchie for Presidency.

BY ELMER DAVIS.

(Copyright, 1932, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP)—Godfrey G. Gloom, the unfettered Hoosier democrat, was discovered by a reporter sitting in the Congress hotel lobby, with his Prince Albert coat wrapped tightly about him and his arms folded across his chest.

"You must be pretty warm, Mr. Gloom," the reporter ventured.

"Better be hot than destitute," said Mr. Gloom. "Ever since I heard that Governor Ritchie had $300 stolen out of his coat pocket the other night by some fellow that came up to shake his hand and congratulate him on his prospects of nomination, I been nursing the bilfild that contains what three years of republican prosperity have left me."

"But I must say," Mr. Gloom pursued, "that that episode kind of discouraged me about Ritchie. I'd been thinkin' pretty well of him before that, but I don't want a president that it's so easy to steal things off of. We had enough of that a few years back."

"Who is your preference for the presidential nomination?" the reporter asked.

"If you'd asked me earlier," replied Mr. Gloom, candidly, "I'd have told you I had none. True to the duty of every resident of Indiana, I was waitin' till properly constituted authority in the state organization told me who my heart was throbbin' for."

"But since I heard that combination prayer meeting, song service and vaudeville show that they put on at the stadium when the resolutions committee failed to appear, I want to say that I'm for Will Rogers first, last and all the time. He's the only man who has yet addressed this convention who, when he showed signs of stoppin', was greeted by shouts of 'No, no, go on. Any man who could have such an effect on these hot and hungry delegates would sweep the country.'"

"It's a blame good thing for Roosevelt and Ritchie and the rest of them that the convention was technically in a state of recess at the time. If some fellow'd got up and nominated Rogers right then, he'd have got two-thirds of the vote as quick as the secretary could have called the roll."

"But there was a good deal of a demonstration for Roosevelt," said the reporter.

"No there was," Mr. Gloom agreed, "and for Al Smith and Ritchie, too. But it don't seem to me that any democrat but Rogers and Thomas Jefferson and Woodrow Wilson has yet evoked so much applause as the convention poured out the other day when Mr. Barkley mentioned Dwight Morrow."

"Of course, Morrow has a great advantage in being dead. This convention, like the one that met here week before last, thinks a lot more of anybody who is good and deceased than of a man who is still alive and able to make enemies."

"I thought it was quite a confession when this convention gave a bigger hand to a dead republican than they've done yet to a live democrat. This Rogers demonstration, however, sort of restored my spirits; even a democrat can nurse their enthusiasm if he adopts the unheard of expedient of talking sense. That was what put Morrow on the front page, if you remember talking sense."

"And I am not persuaded that it would be a suicidal course for any candidate to adopt this year either, though I don't imagine any candidate who is liable to be nominated here will be bold enough to run the risk."

"How do you find general sentiment among the delegates?" the reporter asked.

"Well, I only talked to one this morning," said Mr. Gloom. "His name is J. Fred Blotto, delegate from Guam. I started askin' him about business conditions out there, but he says: 'Hell, Mr. Gloom, I never heard of Guam till last week. I come from Philadelphia,' he says, 'and on account of some trouble in my yard I couldn't get on the Pennsylvania delegation; but some of the boys had promised to take care of me so they put me on from Guam.'"

"Well, that looked all right at first, but I come to find out that Guam is run by a naval governor. How the hell," he says, 'am I goin' to qualify for the postmastership or district attorneyship by throwin' the Guam vote to the winning candidate at the proper moment if I got to join the navy to qualify? I get seasick,' he says, 'every time I even go down Delaware bay on a fishing boat.'"

"Then he left me to try to crash the resolutions committee, in the hope of getting them to adopt a plank demanding home rule and a Garner post-office for Guam."

MISSISSIPPI BANKS EVADE FEDERAL TAX
JACKSON, Miss., June 29.—(UP)—Many Mississippi banks are using "counter receipts" instead of checks to evade payment of the 2-cent federal tax on each check, it was learned here today.

The "counter receipts" are non-negotiable and must be presented by the depositor. The depositor does not draw on his account for the amount of money he wants but merely acknowledges receipt of it.

Smith, a farmer near here, identified a skeleton found about five miles from his home as that of his son. The skeleton was found Monday. An empty gun lay beside the bones.

ROOSEVELT SILENT ON CHICAGO EVENTS

Big Tri-Motored Airplane
Stands Ready To Carry
Governor to Chicago.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, ALBANY, N. Y., June 29.—(AP)—While a big, speedy trimotored airplane, fueled and with two pilots standing by, awaited his orders at Albany airport, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight maintained his customary reserve about his plans and the progress of his campaign for the democratic nomination for president of the United States.

Although officials of the American Airways in Cleveland had confirmed reports that the airplane had been chartered and was being held in readiness to take him to Chicago, Governor Roosevelt would not say that this was true.

He did not deny it, either. He only laughed. "Now, I'll tell you what I'm going to do," he said with pretended seriousness. "I'm going to bicycle out to Chicago."

"I'm going to get one of these quintets—you know, five bicycles in a row."

"Father will ride in the first seat and manage the handlebars. Jim will ride second, then Elliott, then Franklin Jr., and then John."

"Sam (referring to Supreme Court Justice Samuel I. Rosenman, his former counsel) will follow—on a tricycle."

At both of today's press conferences Governor Roosevelt was in high good humor—but Chicago couldn't have been dragged into the conversation with a team of horses.

He received a telephone call from his son, James, while the newspaper correspondents were in session with him in the late afternoon. And at the same time news came that the platform committee had adopted a straight repeal plank. But he had no comment to make.

Rogers Praises All Candidates, Says Any Convention Is Joke

CHICAGO STADIUM, June 29.—(AP)—The democrats, waiting on the serious business of platform making and nominating, devoted a recess interval today to laughter and applause at the offerings of a bevy of entertainers.

Will Rogers, invited to the speaker's stand by the uproarious demands of the Oklahoma delegates, accepted the nomination and said he'd try to carry on until "we can get enough of the platform committee members sober enough to turn in a platform."

Eddie Dowling, the stage star, introduced Rogers. "I'll always know that any convention was a joke and now I know it."

"All I have to do is to stand here and act the fool until the democratic party can agree on prohibition—and that means I will be here from now on."

"As soon as we can get enough of the platform committee members sober enough to turn in a platform, we will get under way."

"As I look over these smiling faces, I don't know what to do. It seems like old times to be up here with Tom Walsh—like being back in—what year was that—1924."

"The applause you gave yesterday to John W. Davis not only showed a fine spirit, but it showed that you've got long memories."

"I had breakfast this morning with Jimmie Cox. Does anybody remember that far back?"

"I was here during the late republican uprising and I'm here for the duration of this mess."

"I'm going to be the first speaker on this platform to have a good word for the opposition. The republicans did the best they could with what little they had."

"If I like all the candidates, I'm not going to pick any one of them. I hate to think that some of them have to lose."

"I like Governor Roosevelt."

He was interrupted by a roar from the Roosevelt delegates, but he asked them to "never mind the parade."

Everybody got a chance to cheer as he named the candidates one by one.

"Al Smith—my Lord—we all like him," he said, "anyone who has been around likes Al. And Garner—he's a peach. You all know Ritchie—a big man from a little state—to know Ritchie is to like him."

He forgot to mention Bill Murray and the Oklahoma delegates carried the state flag up to the platform to remind him.

"Don't forget this thing," he went on. "When you go home don't act like democrats; act like the candidate is the man you came here to see nominated. Don't go home sore. Don't say you nominated the weakest man. I don't see how he could be any weaker than his opposition; if he lives, to next November, he's in, that's all."

When Rogers quit, Dowling called for Gene Tunney who had been sitting in the press box, to come up "and take a bow," but Tunney couldn't be found.

The flight could hardly be made non-stop because of probable headwinds. Equipped with all the latest tricks for passengers' comfort and convenience, it has a two-way radio set, so that the governor could still direct proceedings in Chicago although in the air.

The most general guess, however, is that he will not fly to Chicago unless he is nominated.

More Fair Weather Forecast for Today

Fair weather is promised Atlanta for today, with a slight chance of light showers in the late afternoon, it was predicted by C. F. von Herrmann, local prognosticator. The temperature will range from approximately 73 degrees to a high of about 89 degrees, Mr. von Herrmann said.

The relentless heat of the last few days was broken Wednesday when the high mark in the temperature's climb was 85 degrees. Low was at 72.

THOUSANDS SEEK TO GAIN ENTRANCE TO CHICAGO MEET

CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP)—Thousands of persons—many of them carrying $40 tickets—milled around the Chicago stadium tonight, unable to obtain entrance to the democratic national convention.

Police reserves were called out, but there were no disorders. The crowd massed about the entrances. Observers placed the number of persons as high as 10,000.

The reason for the jam, it was said, was that thousands of tickets in excess of the number of seats available had been issued. Police charged that hundreds of "cousin cards" issued by Mayor Anton J. Cermak had been counterfeited.

Holders of regulation tickets arrived at the stadium to find that persons with the "cousin cards" and miscellaneous types of badges had entered the hall and were in possession of their seats.

The fire marshal's office ordered further admittances be denied—regardless of the type of tickets presented. Newspaper workers, persons carrying banners, others holding cards and badges marked "Stadium Employees" were blocked at the entrances by police.

Several thousand persons likewise were denied admission this afternoon when an estimated crowd of 27,000 had packed the hall.

Today's housewife, like the business man, knows the value of the telephone, which carries her everyday wishes to tradesmen or her emergency summons to the doctor, police or fire departments with equal ease.

Like the business man, too, the modern housewife knows that the cost of telephone service is so low that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

SARAZEN STANDS TO MAKE ABOUT $200,000 OUT OF TWO GOLF TITLES.

Stock in the open golf championships is still paying dividends. Gene Sarazen, the little Italian-American who raced home ahead in the national and British opens, figures to make about $200,000 out of the two titles. Any additional titles won in the meantime may boost that figure up another $50,000.

Sarazen will, of course, be signed by some enterprising news syndicate to write articles for them. The contract will be for one or two years. It will net about $20,000 annually for Gene. His writings will really be of value for about four or five years.

There is undoubtedly some firm which will let Gene Sarazen tell of the virtues of some brand of goods over the radio and in newspaper and magazine ads. This, it is expected, will bring in about $25,000 annually. Using a certain brand of clubs and golf balls will bring in some $15,000 or $20,000 more. A series of golf pictures such as Bobby Jones made and popularized should mean about $75,000.

This sort of income may be confidently expected for three or four years provided the democrats will get Franklin D. Roosevelt nominated and elected. Which shouldn't be so difficult.

Should Sarazen add a few more titles, as did Bobby Jones, he should be able to make his golf fame pay him something like $60,000 for four or five years. Or longer.

These open victories are not so good as far as the cash prizes are concerned. The English open carries a prize of 100 pounds, which is slightly more than $300 at the current rate of exchange.

Sarazen spent something like $20,000 in five trips across seeking the British open. It paid 100 pounds but Gene will now proceed to make it pay and pay and pay.

This, incidentally, gives an idea of what a Simon-pure amateur is up against unless he is well heeled with money. These trips in search of golf and tennis titles run into important funds.

Once upon they become valuable. Very much so indeed.

SARAZEN'S COOL NERVES.

They are telling some excellent stories about the new golf champion. Especially those about his behavior at Fresh Meadow, where a wild and uncouth golf gallery trampled on his heels, breathed down his neck and talked and shouted as he played.

Sarazen played as if they were not there, shooting his record-breaking 66 while they rumbled and muttered behind him. A pro, they say, is supposed to play under any conditions. But they don't always do it. Bobby Jones, the amateur, played well despite the gallery. He accepted it as part of the price of fame.

All of which makes a lot of the boys look a bit exasperated. In tennis and golf there is a lot of shushing and a lot of temperamental displays if there be any noise or movement. One writer said: "A lot of fellows supposed to be playing for the fun of it, demand quiet and have temperamental displays of temper if they don't get it. Yet, there was Sarazen with the chips on the table, and big chips, too, playing as if he did not hear it. When you hear some of these fellows complaining about the gallery there is a little bit of phoney in their make-up."

Well, does a golfer or tennis player really require silence and isolation? Or is it just a habit?

BABE RUTH'S FOXY CHASE.

They are saying in New York that this is the last big year for George H. Ruth, the man who made the home run famous. They are also saying that Al Simmons, seeing his teammate, Jimmy Foxx, take the spotlight and hold it, is discontented and pretty sure to be sold at the end of the current season.

Hence the interest in the home run race between Jimmy Foxx and Babe Ruth, the old fox-chaser. Foxx is five home runs and 11 days ahead of the pace set by Ruth in 1927 when the greatest of them all set the modern record of 60 homers. Mr. Freddie Russell, of the Nashville Banner, who likes his figures, has arranged an itemized account of the race, as follows:

It's the first time in years that a right-hander has come along to challenge the rule of the left-handed slugger. Paste the above list on the dining room table and scratch the additional home runs in with your fork each morning. It's quite a race.

TAGGING A FEW BASES.

Johnny Brewer, former Tech baseball star, is playing first base for San Antonio.

San Antonio, incidentally, set a night baseball record by playing a 17-inning game one night and coming back with a 16-inning contest the next. They won both, 5 to 4 and 2 to 1.

Bob Parham has been recalled from Houston by the Cardinals. He, too, once starred for Tech and later for Atlanta.

Red Wingo was suspended by the Scranton management but the fans yelled so loudly that Bill Clymer reinstated him. Wingo is a Georgia boy. He saw service with the Lookouts last season.

Umpire Eddie Goes, who was in the Southern Association last season, was mobbed by irate fans at York, Pa., last week. He is in the hospital. Goes had narrow escapes in Dixieland.

Tom Angley, also an ex-Tech star, has been sent to Terre Haute in the Three-I league by the Indianapolis club. His hitting, once vicious, was off.

Clise Dudley, one-time Cracker, has been sent to Columbus by Cincinnati.

Lou Garland, who had a tryout with the Crackers this spring, has won six and lost two for Dallas in the Texas league.

CRACKERS SPLIT DOUBLE-HEADER AT BIRMINGHAM

Atlanta Loses First, 3-2, and Wins Second, 4-2; Si Is Hurt.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 20.—Climax Blenheim, aided by the hard-hitting of his teammates, pitched the Crackers to victory in the second game of a double-header here today. The Barons won the first, 3 to 2. The first game was not only the Crackers' defeat in the standings but also lost them the services of Cy Rosenthal, heavy-hitting outfielder, who suffered an injured knee sliding into a base. After an examination of the knee, Manager Red Barron announced that Rosenthal probably would be out of the lineup only a short time.

The first game was nip-and-tuck. Lefty Carithers, pitching for Atlanta, gave up only seven hits, while Shoaf, Barons moundsman, went one better, allowing but six.

The Barons scored first in the second inning, but the Crackers tied up the score in the fourth. Another run in the sixth put the Barons ahead again. But the Crackers again tied the game up in the eighth. Then, of their half of the same inning the Barons scored the run that meant the game.

In the second game, which went 11 innings, Atlanta made four hits in succession in the third inning to score a run and go ahead. Those Barons tied the count in the fourth, and there was no more scoring until the eleventh when the Crackers scored twice and broke up a great pitcher's battle between Walkup and Berres.

PHIL PERKINS FAVORED TO WIN WESTERN OPEN

GENE SARAZEN WILL NOT PLAY AT CLEVELAND

Tourney Starts Today With Strong Field Seeking Golf Title.

By Paul Mickelson.

CLEVELAND, June 29.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen's last-minute decision to call an ambulance in his campaign for golf titles sent a streak of sunshine across the sky for 130-odd golfers today as they sharpened their war clubs for the western open championship drive over the hilly fairways of Canterbury Golf Club tomorrow morning.

Gene's withdrawal, caused by the strain of his great battles in the British and United States open championships, gave almost a toss-up complexion to the western campaign, which opens tomorrow with the regulation 18 holes and ends Saturday.

If any favorite arose from his absence it was Phil Perkins, who saw his brilliant 289 tied and then shattered in the open at Fresh Meadow last week. The tall Briton worked out over the championship layout today and said his game was as strong as ever.

Perkins, however, faced a lot of high-class competition in the 72-hole struggle. His rivals included Walter Hagen, of Detroit, four times champion of the title; Tommy Armour, of Detroit, who shot the low record of 273 for the event in his title drive of 1929; the Dutch brothers, Otto and Mortie, from California; Tom Creasy, of Albany, N. Y., 1931 national professional champion, and the man he beat in the U. S. A. final, Dennis Shute, of Cleveland, and the defending champion, Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del.

It was the general consensus of the starters tonight that the championship Canterbury layout was due for a big operation. The course, stretching over approximately 5,500 yards from the back tees, did not appear exceedingly difficult, and many golfers predicted that the winner would have to post a 72-hole record of not more than 282 strokes or 6 shots under par.

SCISSORS KING FEATURES CARD

Joe Stecher will return to an Atlanta ring next Monday night at the baseball park when he meets Blue Sun Jennings, the big Indian, in a best-two-out-of-three-falls match. Henry Weber is matchmaker.

Stecher, former world's champion, is going at a good pace and hopes to get another match with Ed (Strangler) Lewis, to whom he lost the title.

Other fireworks for the Fourth of July match include German Hickman, all-American football player at Tennessee last season, against George Tragos, Greek demon of St. Louis.

The show will mark Stecher's first appearance in Atlanta since he lost his title to Ed (Strangler) Lewis in 1928. The last time fans here set eyes upon the scissor king from Pennsylvania, he defeated him successfully against the attack of Jimmy London in a sensational match.

Stecher has always been popular in this section, not alone because of his outstanding skill as a wrestler but because of his polished and sportsmanlike demeanor in the ring. Plenty of rough stuff has been tried against him, but Joe never retreats in kind.

Sun Jennings, the popular Cherokee, will provide a stiff test for Stecher in the old champion's comeback. The Indian is a clean, but clever wrestler who boasts, in the Japanese nerve lock, one of the most feared holds in the mat game. On Jennings' last appearance here he grappled to a draw with Paul Jones.

Much interest also attaches to Hickman's debut here, as the ex-Val has won wrestling titles a few months, but has already shown his ability to cope on equal terms with all except the very topnotchers of the sport. His reputation as an all-around tackle in 1931 has made him an excellent drawing card all over the country. Tragos has not shown here in some time, but Atlantans will receive him with an experienced and able performer.

Tickets for the holiday bouts are on sale at Davidson-Paxon's and the Piedmont Hatters.

Equipose Assigned Maximum Weight

CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP)—Equipose, four-year-old, white, bay, cap star, has been assigned top weight of 120 pounds for the $50,000 Stars and Stripes handicap at Arlington Park, July 4.

Gallant Knight, considered his greatest rival in the rich event over a mile and one furlong, was asked to carry a package of 123 pounds. Other weights assigned to contenders were Mate 120; Clock Tower, 117; White Clover 116; Plucky Play, 113; Sun Meadow, 113 and Spanish Play, 112. There were 94 nominations and 25 of the eligibles were at Arlington today in training.

Cole and Mauldin To Meet Friday

Ambrose Cole, Birmingham wrestler, will meet George Mauldin, Atlanta, in the main event on the wrestling card being given in the Buckhead gymnasium Friday night.

Battling Bozo, one of the better known of the Atlanta pugilists, will meet Fred Jones, he and the home nine scored their brace of runs on four successive hits. McCorkle relieved Phillips in the fifth and was also inclined to be wild.

'Frankenstein' of Track in Action

Sig Haugdahl's rocket car, latest thing in the racing world, is shown whirling around the mile track at Lakewood yesterday in a test run. The machine, which has no motor, was only half loaded for the trial, yet made a successful near-circuit of the track. A small crowd of spectators, mostly newspapermen, saw Haugdahl, enveloped in flames from the noiseless explosion of rockets, steer the car successfully around the course. At one time it reached a speed of 45 miles an hour. It is entered on the July 4 racing program here. Photo by Kenneth Rogers.

ROME PREPARED FOR SWIM MEET

ROME, Ga., June 29.—The city of Rome is all prepared and waiting for the invasion of swimmers and swimming fans who will flock to the Darlington school campus here next Monday Tuesday for the annual meet of the southeastern division of the Amateur Athletic Union.

With the exception of the diving events, which will be held Monday night at the city pool, all junior and senior participation will be staged in the two-acre lake on the Darlington campus.

Rome will play host to some of the most prominent swimmers of the south during the two-day meet, and these leading aquatic performers are expected to depart from Rome Tuesday night with a number of new records. No marks have been shattered since 1930. Seven new ones were established that year, but unfavorable conditions at the meet in Pensacola a year ago were not conducive to record-breaking.

The lake at the Darlington school, however, is expected to be ideal for record-breaking performances. Competitions in the southeastern records have been spent in preparing the lake for the meet, which is also equivalent this year to the sectional Olympic tryouts.

Included in the notables who will vie for first honors are Miss Louise Robert, of Atlanta, national junior champion in the 100-yard back stroke; Ish Williams, of Rome, holder of two southeastern records; the Staff sisters, of Pensacola, Fla., and numerous others who are now in possession of the southeastern records.

At least 150 swimmers are expected. Membership in this division totals 53 organizations, and over 36 other persons have been received from clubs and individuals outside the division membership regarding the meet.

Most of the organizations send teams, but some send individuals. The best swimming talent, and much is in store for the audience.

ATLEE PERKINS WINS HIS BOUT

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 29.—Atlee Perkins, 145-pounder from Atlanta, Ga., tonight threw Roy Scriven, of Baltimore, in 32 seconds in the annual national U. M. C. A. championships.

Chris Kontos, of Birmingham, won from John Lucas, Chicago, in the 155-pound class in 6 minutes 15 seconds.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 29.—Two Atlanta wrestlers lost tonight in the opening round of the National U. M. C. A. wrestling championships.

In the 134-pound class, Robert Ruppenthal, of Rochester, N. Y., won from Bill Carson, of Atlanta, in 5 minutes 29 seconds.

George Ereckson, 145-pounder from Baltimore, threw James H. Patterson, of Atlanta, in 4 minutes 29 seconds.

Americus Is Winner Over Sylvester, 9-2

SYLVESTER, Ga., June 29.—Phillips was off form and wild yesterday afternoon while Witt was a puzzle to local batters and Americus defeated Sylvester in an abbreviated game, 9 to 2. It was just a half game by minutes, a downpour occurring immediately after completion of the fifth inning. Parrish hit a home run with the bases loaded in the fifth. Griffin led off the fifth with a triple and the home nine scored their brace of runs on four successive hits. McCorkle relieved Phillips in the fifth and was also inclined to be wild.

Haugdahl's Rocket Car 'Frankenstein' of Track

Newspapermen Get Secret View of Motorless Machine and Term It Miracle.

By Jimmy Jones.

In the presence of a handful of newspapermen and photographers, Sig Haugdahl yesterday stripped the mantle of mystery from the strangest machine that has hit the American track in many years—the German rocket car. The grizzled Norwegian, whose weatherbeaten countenance has been a breaker for much wind and dust, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday night with the car after a drive of 4,300 miles. For the benefit of several doubting Thomases, who wanted to be shown, Haugdahl took the car out to the Lakewood mile course early yesterday morning for a secret try-out.

The machine, a beautifully built thing of hammered aluminum, was towed out to the dirt oval that encircles the lake. There the stocky Haugdahl, the ever-present stooge in his mouth, smoking dangerously near enough explosives to blow the all of us to kingdom come, knelt down and proceeded to load the rear of the car with rockets. There were sockets for 32, but Haugdahl only put in 13. The rockets cost a dollar apiece, and 13 was enough for a mild demonstration.

After he had loaded only one side of the perforated triangle, Haugdahl wired them up with his switch board. The whole job took about 15 minutes. Then a stock car towed him up the track a way and turned him around. In a moment he was under way. The low rope was cut loose and Haugdahl threw on the switch. A cloud of smoke emerged in the rear. The car got under way slowly. Then Haugdahl, the ever-present stooge in his mouth, smoking dangerously near enough explosives to blow the all of us to kingdom come, knelt down and proceeded to load the rear of the car with rockets. There were sockets for 32, but Haugdahl only put in 13. The rockets cost a dollar apiece, and 13 was enough for a mild demonstration.

When the car passed the cluster of wide-eyed spectators it was making around 45 miles an hour and the flames were flying out of the pipes in sheets. Haugdahl seemed to be emerging in flames as he huddled there in the pit, a leather jacket protecting him from the fiery blasts. Although less than half loaded, Haugdahl had enough impetus to carry him to the far turn, almost around the track. The rockets he used were for duty demonstration only, but they were enough to make the car carrying its full arsenal. As it was, it was a sight worth remembering.

Haugdahl climbed out of the car smiling, the stooge still in his mouth. The arms of his leather jacket were slightly scorched. He exclaimed that the onrushing air whipped the flames behind him and cooled his face. That's why the car has to be in motion when the rockets are set off. If the rockets were ignited with the car standing still the sockets would become red hot and blow the car to smithereens.

That's what happened in Germany when the rocket plane was blown to bits.

Suffice it to say that there is no audible explosion in the rockets. Neither do they leave their sockets. They are powder rockets and not the high explosive liquid flame rockets the pioneer Germans used. One can hear no sound as the car slithers past like a gray, mechanical ghost of smoke and flame, with Haugdahl hunched over the wheel. The machine rolls smoothly along on ball bearings. The perfectly timed, gradual escaping of the rockets' contents propels the car forward the same principle that the sky rocket you buy for junior at Christmas time is shot upward by the explosion against the ground.

Haugdahl, who is still experimenting with the device, explained in his broken English that the slow start was due to the fact that he had wired the rockets wrong in his haste and the third switch he threw set off 10 of them at once. That's why he passed it so fast. The rockets, especially built for this machine, are about two feet long and filled with a mixture of powder and chemical. The car itself is about the size of the average racer. It has no radiator and no motor, saving a small air-cooled one that charges the battery.

To the onlookers, the sight of the car hurtling past without combustion made the same impression that the Monitor must have presented to the crew the day it came when it appeared on the horizon like a "cheese box on a raft" back in the '60s. Or a similar effect to that of an airplane landing in an Indian village back in colonial days.

In the "Frankenstein" of the race tracks and Haugdahl is the genius who makes it go.

GOLF CRACKS WIELD CUDGEL FOR GOODMAN

U. S. G. A. Criticized for Leaving Omaha Star Off Walker Team.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP)—Metropolitan golf critics took up the weapons today for Johnny Goodman, the Omaha amateur ace, and delivered a broadside of criticism against the United States Golf Association for failure to name him among the ten players for this year's Walker cup match with Great Britain.

Goodman's all-around tournament record, observers asserted, appeared much more impressive than that of several named on the team. This year's period from 1929, when Goodman sprang to fame by beating Bob Jones in the first round of the national amateur at Pebble Beach up to the 1932 national open at Fresh Meadow, where the Nebraska was top amateur and shot a 68 on his final round.

EXPERIENCE. An argument advanced in Goodman's favor is that he has had more experience and shown more consistent ability than such selections as Jack Westland, Charley Seaver or Billy Howell, all of whom have come into prominence only within the last year or two. However, Goodman's measure in the 1931 amateur.

Furthermore, critics added, Goodman qualified in each of the last two national amateur championships, despite early defeats, whereas Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, of St. Paul, Minnesota, chosen for the team, has not qualified since he won the 1929 tournament.

Johnston, as well as Jess Sweetser, it was indicated, were selected on the basis of previous good work in the Walker cup competition, thereby furnishing a balance wheel of experience for the new talents.

CONSIDERED. Officials of the U. S. G. A. declined to make any statement in explanation of Goodman's omission, but it was considered along with a number of others who did not make the team, including Gene Homans, of Englewood, N. J., 1930 runner-up in the national amateur; Dr. O. F. Willing, the Oregon veteran; Johnny Lehman, former western amateur champion, and Gus Moreland, of Dallas, the new trans-Mississippi champion.

The Walker cup selections, as it happened, were made before Goodman's fine showing in the last open championship, although their announcement was not made until yesterday.

Unofficially, it was understood the attitude of the U. S. G. A. could be summed up about like this: "Goodman is in perfectly good standing and well liked. He was considered thoroughly, in going over the team selections, but it was not felt his match play record over the past two seasons in major tournaments, was exceptional. Performances in the national amateur, as well as previous Walker cup experience, both figured strongly in making the selections."

THE PORTLIGHT By Krautman Rice

The Walker Cup Team.

There were enough rasping spots in this woolly universe today without asking any committee to name a Walker cup team to face the British invasion at Brookline in early September.

The committee did as well as a committee could be expected to do with the lack of consistency shown among amateur leaders. Yet I believe Gus Moreland, of Dallas, Texas, is certainly one of the best three amateurs in the country. He could probably outscore any amateur in the game over a 72-hole stretch, which is always the ranking test.

The committee probably felt that he was too much of a newcomer and had not figured as much among the others in well-known tournaments. Last fall at Beverly in the amateur championship he finished second among the qualifiers, after winning ten consecutive tournaments in the southwest. He recently had a 64 in winning the trans-Mississippi and he had 140 for 36 holes in attempting to qualify for the open.

As it is, the U. S. G. A. committee has named a first-class team at a time when amateur playing standards are well below average years in consistency skill—with Francis Ouimet outstanding. There were years that knew Travers and Travis—Evans and Gardner—Ouimet, Jones and Von Blin.

This next Walker cup test should be more interesting than most, for it should be extremely close. There is ability minus consistency on both sides—so anything can happen. The fine showing of Billy Howell and Jack Westland in the last amateur championship turned out in their way. The choice of Billy Howell, of Virginia, is sure to be one of the most popular selections.

Barry Wood's Resting Spell.

Just ran across Barry Wood, of Harvard, on his way to a Maine summer camp, where he can get in all the golf and tennis he wants to play without the competitive strain.

You would think that one who had played on Harvard's football team, hockey team and baseball team for three years, while showing enough tennis skill to be eligible for the Davis cup squad, would be looking for a quiet summer. But it so happens that in addition to being a high ranking student, around the head of his class, this same Barry Wood gets his biggest kick out of intercollegiate competition.

"I'm for intramural sports," he said, "at least for all those who like this type of play and competition better than the other kind. But I don't believe intramural sports should ever drive out intercollegiate competition. I don't believe it will at Harvard. Intercollegiate play must be the main inspiration where sport is to have any student appeal."

"Have you gotten over that Yale football game?" I asked him.

Wood smiled. "I just about have," he answered. "I'll say this—those Yale boys did the best job of scouting I ever saw. We never had a chance to move."

"What do you think of Yale's new five-game plan?" I asked.

"Yale must have a reason for this change," Wood said, "but it is beyond me. I know I'd like to play a game every Saturday and so would the rest of our bunch—I mean with some outside opponent."

Barry Wood, however, is now through with competitive sport. After

GOMEZ ROUTED BUT YANKS WIN OVER NATS, 6-5

George Piggras Given Credit for Victory. Sewell Hits Homers.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP)—The Yankees and their star southpaw, Vernon Gomez, both had close calls today but they came through safely and with a certain degree of success. The Yanks further increased their lead in the American league by defeating the Washington Senators, 6 to 5, and Gomez, although he failed to win his 12th straight game, got by without a defeat.

After a good start, Gomez weakened badly in the seventh and eighth innings, allowing the Senators to tie the score twice. The second time he was removed in favor of George Piggras, who was credited with the victory as New York scored the winning run in the last half of the inning. It was the first time in ten starts he had been driven to cover.

Joe Sewell got the Yankees off to a good start by hitting a home run with none on in the first inning and another in the third.

New York's winning run was scored off Lloyd Brown. Arndt Jorgens drew a walk to start the inning and Lazzeri and Larry brought him home with singles.

TWO BURNED TO DEATH AS TRUCK STRIKES BUS

Three Others Injured Near Savannah; Driver of Bus Held Blameless.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 29.—(AP)—Two men were burned to death and three persons injured nine miles north of here this afternoon when a bread truck, belonging to the Southern Baking Company, and a large passenger bus collided head-on.

Claude E. Miller, truck driver, of Savannah, and an unidentified hitch-hiker were the two fatally burned.

William Allen, 21, New York city, hitch-hiker, was injured and an unidentified hitch-hiker was knocked unconscious. Miss Wilson, a bus passenger, from Charleston, S. C., was slightly injured. The two unidentified hikers were believed to be from Miami.

Miller and the hiker perished in flames which enveloped the truck just after the crash. The hitch-hiker who was seriously hurt was on the front seat with them. Allen, who escaped serious injury, was locked in the back of the truck, but was rescued before the flames could reach him.

Passengers aboard the northbound bus exonerated the driver, James King, of all blame for the accident.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR HENRY ALVIN DEAN

ROME, Ga., June 29.—Funeral services for Henry Alvin Dean, 64, prominent manufacturer of Rome, who died late Monday, were conducted from the residence here Wednesday afternoon by Dr. Bunyan Stephens, assisted by Rev. H. Field Saunders. Interment was in Myrtle Hill.

Mr. Dean was one of the most prominent manufacturers in the south and for 45 years had been engaged in the manufacture of agricultural implements with the same firm. At the time of his death he was vice president of the Atlanta Plow Company, owners and operators of the Towers & Sullivan division plant here.

Mr. Dean is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Littleton V. Richardson, of Ashterton, Texas. Also surviving are his sister, Mrs. George A. Shuford, Asheville, N. C., and two brothers, L. A., of Rome, and Frank, of Atlanta.

SHERIFF RE-ELECTED IN THOMAS PRIMARY

THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 29.—(AP)—Sheriff G. E. Davis was re-elected to that office today in a primary with J. A. Cobb, former federal prohibition officer and now a Thomasville policeman. Sheriff Davis received a majority of 251 votes.

F. S. Norton defeated G. B. Isler for tax collector. Isler was running for re-election. Judge W. M. Jones, only Confederate veteran holding office in the county, was given a majority of 133 over R. S. Burch for ordinary.

Fifth Still Is Raided Near Meeting Ground

WASHINGTON, Ga., June 29.—The fifth sizable still within a radius of two miles of Mountain camp-meeting ground, in Warren county, was raided Monday by Sheriff George M. Walton, of Wilkes county, and others.

The last still seized was in full blast at mid-day, operated, according to officers, by two white men and a negro. The negro was captured and carried to Augusta to face federal authorities. The 100-gallon copper outfit, with approximately 2,000 gallons of beer and 10 of whisky, were destroyed.

MAYOR SIGNS PAY ROLL DESPITE ILLEGALITY

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 29.—(AP)—Acting Mayor C. C. Murphy has signed city pay rolls amounting to $600, even though City Attorney J. Paul Stephens ruled the payments illegal.

"I cannot bring myself to deny these men their pay—although I know it is a violation of city ordinance—because they have earned their little $9.45 a week. They are not responsible for the action of high-ups who would make capital out of danger," Murphy said.

The pay rolls carried the names of about 60 men who were hired to do ditch-digging, wood-cutting, canal and other work.

The city attorney said that the city could provide that extra men shall be hired only by the committee in charge and then shall not be hired during the time of municipal election campaigns. Murphy said the men in question were put to work last week within three weeks of the city election and by authority of the streets and drains committee.

Murphy said the voucher for the men had been approved by Chairman R. A. Elliott, of the committee, the commissioner of public works and other officers. "They knew, too, that these men were unauthorized and could have stopped it before they were put to work. Now that they have trolled a week in the hot sun, I can't bring myself to deny their meager earnings. If the citizens want to get out of the city, let them go. They can expect no better. They have a chance on July 6 to approve or repudiate, in the election, the practice of getting concerned about hungry human beings only on the eve of elections."

OCONEE RIVER VICTIM FROM STATE HOSPITAL

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., June 29.—(AP)—A body of a white man about 40 years of age found Tuesday afternoon about 12 miles from Milledgeville in the Oconee river, was identified Wednesday by officials of the state hospital here as that of J. T. Bearden, a patient for 21 years.

Bearden was from Walton county. He was missed during a berry hunt near the river in which he and other patients of the hospital took part. A search was made at the time but he could not be found.

Savannah Professional Nurses Seek Eight-Hour Working Day

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 29.—Whether the working day of a professional nurse will be eight hours in the future or remain at 12 hours is an important matter before the hospital staffs here and which is being considered by the physicians of the city. A committee representing the trained nurses' organization has appeared before the staff of the Candler hospital and presented the matter.

It is claimed that eight hours is the working period for union labor and nurses consider themselves a part of the union labor organizations of the country. Because of this affiliation they think they should only work in shifts of eight hours, with approximately 12,000 of them in the city.

It is understood that the doctors have not approved that plan entirely.

BIG HOLIDAY PROGRAM PLANNED WAYCROSS

WAYCROSS, Ga., June 29.—An elaborate Fourth of July program has been arranged for Waycross under the sponsorship of the merchants of Tebeau street.

Featuring the program will be addresses in the morning by Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., candidate for re-election from the eighth district, and the United States senator, Thomas W. Hardwick, candidate for governor, and Braxwell Dean, candidate for congressman from the eighth district.

In addition to the addresses there will be a baseball game in the morning and afternoon, sponsored by the American Legion, a prize fight at 7 p. m. at the swimming pool gymnasium and a street dance at 9 p. m. on Tebeau street.

Visitors at G. S. C. W.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., June 29.—The Georgia State College for Women was honored recently by a visit from a large group of prominent officers and workers in the American Home Economics Association. While they were in Milledgeville they were entertained by President and Mrs. J. L. Beeson with a dinner at the mansion, and by a garden party at Birch Acre, the home of Judge and Mrs. E. R. Hines.

Chinese Hall Blaze.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 29.—Chinese Masons of Savannah are convinced that somebody is trying to burn them out. The Chinese have a well-furnished Masonic hall at 110 Lincoln street. It has been found to be on fire once or twice recently and on Tuesday morning at 4 o'clock a fire of considerable size was discovered between the sills of the house. Ah Sing and Sam Lee were asleep in the place when the fire was discovered. They were awakened in time to get out without difficulty.

Two Get Commissions.

MACON, Ga., June 29.—(AP)—William H. Hazlehurst Jr. and Leroy S. Young of Macon, have received commissions as second lieutenants in the reserve corps of the United States army.

Institute Open.

TENNESSEE, Ga., June 29.—The mission study institute for the east central division of the Baptist W. M. F. C., conducted by W. L. Little, mission study chairman of the division, opened here yesterday. Mrs. E. M. Bailey, of Acworth, Georgia state chairman of mission study, was the principal speaker.

Lodge To Be Host.

DALTON, Ga., June 29.—Dalton Lodge No. 105, A. O. U. M., on Friday evening, July 8, will be host to the Chattahoochee Valley Club for Macons. L. G. Walker, of the Chattanooga Times, will be the principal speaker. It is announced that the grand lodge officers of Georgia have been invited, some of whom have signified their intention of attending. A general invitation has been extended to all Macons.

Negro Escapes Chair.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., June 29.—Albert Price, Everett City negro, has escaped the electric chair. Sentenced to die for slaying another negro, he was freed by a jury and yesterday attorneys in the case agreed to a consent verdict of guilty with a recommendation for mercy, which carries with it a life sentence.

Elks Plan 'Cue.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., June 29.—The Milledgeville Lodge of Elks, No. 774, will hold a Fourth of July celebration and barbecue here on Monday. W. B. Richardson Jr. is exalted ruler.

Club Re-elects Officers.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 29.—The Exchange Club of Savannah has re-elected all officers for the coming year. Those chosen for another term included Carl W. Seller, president; Winston Schuman, vice president; W. J. Brady, second vice president; M. B. Ellis, third vice president; M. B. Weldon, secretary; William H. Biscoff, treasurer; Rev. Charles L. Earnest, chaplain; and Miss Dorothy Neidinger, pianist.

POSTMASTER STRICKEN, SUCCEEDS IN BOWMAN

BOWMAN, Ga., June 29.—Miss Lois A. Roberts, postmaster here, while in the discharge of her duties at noon today, was stricken with an acute heart attack and died instantly at noon Wednesday. She was 42 years of age, a member of the Baptist church, and had served some eight years as postmaster here. She is survived by six brothers and three sisters.

LAWYER ACQUITTED ON ARSON CHARGE

MACON, Ga., June 29.—(AP)—Ernest C. Herring, Macon lawyer, was acquitted on the charge of arson by a jury in Bibb superior court tonight. The verdict was reached after five hours' deliberation.

At the trial Herring introduced no evidence, but made a personal appeal to the jury. The state had accused him of being responsible for a fire that destroyed a residence.

State Deaths And Funerals

MRS. ELIZA JENKINS.
McDONOUGH, Ga., June 29.—Funeral services for Mrs. Eliza Jenkins, 78, of Henry county, were held at the Baptist church Tuesday afternoon. Rev. C. C. Buckland, of Atlanta, conducted the service and interment was in the churchyard. Mrs. Jenkins died at the home of her son in Tusculum, Ga., on Monday. She was born and reared in Henry county and had lived her life in the same community. She was married to Mr. E. B. Jenkins, of Henry county, and they had three children, Mrs. M. A. Paxon, of Locust Grove; Mrs. M. A. Paxon, of Hampton; and one brother, S. P. Nail, of Griffin.

Ambulances, Firemen Must Obey Speed Laws

THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 29.—The hitherto speedy drivers of fire trucks and ambulances in Thomasville have been legislated down to the level of ordinary automobiles.

City council has enacted an ordinance limiting their speed inside the city limits to 35 miles an hour. The high speeds formerly permitted these vehicles was regarded by council members as a distinct menace to pedestrians, and to traffic in general.

MASKED WHITE BANDIT ROBS BANK AT ALBANY

ALBANY, Ga., June 29.—(AP)—A masked bandit held up the Albany Trust & Banking Co. shortly after noon Wednesday and escaped with between $200 and $300.

Carl Newman, cashier, was alone when the robber, a middle-aged white man, came in the front door, slipping a mask over his face and pulling a gun from inside his shirt after entering the building. Producing a large paper bag, he ordered the cashier to go into the vault and fill the bag with money. Newman explained that the bank does not do a general checking business and does not carry large sums of cash in the vault. The bandit then went to the teller and scooped up the loose silver and bills.

The cashier was then threatened with being locked in the vault, but successfully argued the bandit out of that move by protesting that only he knew the combination.

He was ordered to stay inside the vault for sixteen minutes, upon penalty of being shot.

The bandit started to leave as he came, but suddenly left through the back door as Mrs. J. S. Billingslea, wife of Albany's mayor, came in from the front door.

GLYNN AND BRUNSWICK MAY COMBINE RULE

BRUNSWICK, Ga., June 29.—(AP)—The proposal to consolidate the city and county governments is being investigated by the Glynn county grand jury.

Some time ago the city commissioners of Brunswick named a committee to meet with the Glynn county commissioners and discuss the question, but the matter has been discussed only informally.

Jack Gardner, a member of the city commission, and chairman of the general presentments committee of the grand jury, invited a number of citizens to appear before the committee Wednesday afternoon.

MAN FOUND SLAIN RESIDENT OF TIFTON

QUINCY, Fla., June 29.—(AP)—An aged man, found slain on a road near Tifton, was identified today as John McGran, of Tifton, Ga.

Identification was established by the man's niece, Mrs. C. A. Richardson. She said he left Tifton May 20 to go to Dothan, Ala. He was buried here June 16 when first efforts to identify him failed.

Marks on his body indicated he was beaten to death and his body dragged to the roadside.

DR. C. L. TUCKER DIES OF POISON IN GRIFFIN

GRIFFIN, Ga., June 29.—(AP)—Dr. C. L. Tucker, 65, a physician here since 1906, died here Wednesday afternoon at 10:30. He had been in ill health for some time.

Dr. Tucker graduated from the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1902. The widow and three daughters, Mrs. J. Marion Stafford, of Memphis; Mrs. O. W. Daniel, of Memphis; and Miss Corinne Tucker, of Atlanta, survive.

Sudden Love

By ELIZABETH SANXAY HOLDING

FINAL INSTALLMENT.

The pretty, young nurse brought him in and the first impression Esme had was of his complete masculine dominance. Michael had his own charm, a woman would love Michael. But Jimmy was a conqueror, a winner. If they loved him, they loved him with tears and bitterness. He smiled at the nurse, and she smiled back, not faintly disconcerted, as she had been with Michael, but with ardent coquetry. That was what Jimmy did—that was his way. Tall, broad shouldered, masterful, and confident, he smiled at that nurse, so in love with himself, so handsome in his gray suit cut to show the lines of his muscular body.

Then Esme noted that he had one arm in a sling. He could be hurt, then. And if he were hurt, how savagely could he retaliate.

"Five minutes," said the nurse, warningly, and went out.

The chair on which poor Lew had sat, where the nurse had sat to read aloud, was still at the bedside and Jimmy sat down in it now.

"Well," he said. "How's it going, baby?"

She never yet had been able to answer Jimmy adequately. She kept silent, her eyes downcast.

"You know it was an accident, don't you?" he said. "I didn't want you hurt."

"You don't care," she said, unsteadily. "You never have cared if you spoil my whole life."

He brought out a gold case and lit a cigarette. No one else had smoked here; it seemed to her a long time since she had smelled tobacco smoke. And it was characteristic of him.

"You haven't cared much what you did to me, have you?" he asked.

"I didn't care," she said. "Only, I couldn't help it."

"Been crying, haven't you?" he said. "But still you're pretty. You poor little damn fool. Well!"

He leaned back his handsome head, smoking, and staring at the ceiling.

"I never wanted a girl before who didn't want me," he said. "I've been lucky with girls. But if you're that way about this fellow—O. K. It's all off, as far as I'm concerned."

"What do you mean, Jimmy?"

"You can have him, and I'll lay off him."

"You mean—you won't ever—?"

"That's what I mean. Plenty of other girls in the world, baby. It's all off."

She moved, and the pain in her shoulder made her give a little stifled gasp.

"Jimmy. But—Lew?"

He glanced at her quickly.

"Lew?" he replied. "Lew's a sap. I'm not going to bother with him any more."

"But you mean—that nothing will happen to him? He won't have to go to prison?"

"Not this time," said Jimmy. "Nobody'll make a move against him with my say-so. This time. But there are plenty of birds like Lew in the big house. Saps—fall guys. You never know how a fellow like that will run."

"Jimmy," she said, and her hand went to her heart. "Jimmy—Michael told the police about you. They're looking for you."

He laughed outright.

"All right! They know where to find me. I was down at the D. A.'s office this morning about this. Charge of assault—by the guy who shot me. That's pretty good. I could put your boy-friend in the dock, baby. And I could make it hot for him. I've got count much. But you'd go on the stand. God! You'd make a swell witness! Going to a hotel with your boy friend, and then to one with me—and then back to him. You'd come out well, wouldn't you? The thing's a farce—charging me. Know where I was, all yesterday and last night? In a hospital. And I can bring up a herself with the unconscious graciousness of a queen in exile.

"Stay, darling, please!" said Esme.

There was one more visitor for Esme that day. It was Arthur Twining, and he came in the spring dusk, and he, too, brought a box of flowers. But the nurse brought down word that Miss Sully had better not see anyone else today. That had been Michael's idea.

"Tell him to come some other time," he had said to the nurse. "And look here! Can't you put one of those signs they have in hotels outside the door? 'Please do not disturb.'"

"I'll see you're not disturbed," said the nurse. "until it's time for the patient's supper."

When she had gone, Michael knelt by the bed and laid his head on the pillow beside Esme's, kissed her softly.

"I'm afraid to touch you," he said. "I'm so afraid I might hurt you. I'll always be afraid about you, to the end of my days. You're so young, Esme. You're so sweet—"

She put her arm about his neck and drew his face against hers.

"Michael—you won't mind if I never tell you anything about Jimmy?"

He did not answer for a moment.

"I'll try not to," he said, at last.

"Michael—there must be things in your life you—just can't talk about—even to me."

"Yes," he said. "But somehow that's different."

"You know it, Michael. I wish—only, you do know it, Michael, don't you, that there never really was ever any one—but you?"

Her voice faltered and broke, and that terrified him.

"Yes, I do know, darling! Don't talk about it. I'll never ask you—I'll forget it."

"You won't do anything more about the police?"

"Nothing more. If you promise me there's no chance of anything else happening."

"I promise you, Michael. It's all over. All finished."

"And you'll marry me—pretty soon?"

"The moment you want."

He had turned out the light: the room was dark in the gathering dusk. He kissed her, and he made his kisses gentle, in his great love, and his great fear for this beloved creature lying here wounded. But the current of their young passion ran strong. Her fingers tightened about his neck.

"Oh, my Michael!"

Outside the house, Twining got back into the taxi that had brought him from the station. As they turned out of the driveway into the main road he threw the box of flowers he had brought over a wall into someone's garden.

She liked me—in the beginning," he thought. "If we'd got away from Helen before Michael came . . . if I'd ever had a chance with you, I'd have been a different man. He lit a cigarette and stared out at the young trees, dark and delicate against the gray sky.

"Trouble with me is," he thought. "I'm too damn cautious. I don't think it pays."

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Dear Miss Chatfield:

My mother is dead. My father has broken up every love affair I have ever had. For two years I have been crazy about a man eight years older than I am. He is in every respect a fine fellow, yet my father objects to my going with him. Here is my question: Has a father any right to object to a man his daughter chooses? And another, is it morally wrong for a girl to go with a man she loves over her father's protest? I believe this discussion will be interesting to many girls that find themselves in my fix.

PERPLEXED.

Blood stream is not pure or his character not good. And when the objections are founded on one of these two certainties the daughter has a right to demand to know the why and wherefore of them. It is rather pathetic to see a parent trying to secure future happiness to his child by robbing her of the thing she counts necessary to present happiness. If he is a conscientious parent, he cannot see his child rush headlong into danger without warning her; and yet he has no right to do any more than warn her after she reaches the age of discretion.

But, of course, no parent ever realizes when his child is no longer a child. And thereby hangs the tale of many heartaches. It's a perilous business, this interfering with love affairs. It's seldom that parents and child see eye to eye about the child's choice of a mate. The parent knows the pitfalls; and he would give warning; but he cannot. The parent fancies he can hand down the benefit of his experience, but he cannot.

No, it's not morally wrong for a girl "to go with" a man over her father's protest, but it's unspeakably foolish of her to ignore his protests. She should sift them and find out whether they are based on prejudice or on fact of the man's delinquencies. She should remember that all things being equal, the father has her ultimate happiness in mind; and though she must in the final analysis make the decisions regarding her happiness, the father deserves to be heard.

There are, doubtless, some unreasonable fathers that think no men are good enough for their daughters. They would make it a business to break up every love affair as fast as it budded. Surely, a daughter subjected to such treatment couldn't be expected to regard such protests as prohibitions that she was morally bound to respect.

Each of us has his or her life to live. Each of us must make a choice at every turn of the road, and each of us must bear the consequences of his or her choice. Probably the greatest one, the one capable of more good or more evil consequences, is this choice of a mate. This is the big fork of the road for the average girl. A wise choice takes her into a country of love and romance, of beauty and light. An unwise choice takes her into a country of darkness and despair, of mental and spiritual morass. At the fork of

FRIGIDAIRE SALESMEN
FOR THE EAST MEET

A meeting was held Wednesday at the Henry C. Greer hotel, attended by the entire Frigidaire sales organization from the states of Georgia and North and South Carolina in commemoration of the manufacture of the 2,250,000th Frigidaire.

The theme of the program was "Compare the Facts."

The entire sales organization was told how Frigidaire gives the best quality at the lowest price—when one compares the facts. These facts are backed up by the 25 years of practical experience in building 2,250,000 Frigidaires, the speakers said.

The speakers were A. F. Eichenlaub, district manager; T. A. Farrell, southeastern regional manager; E. E. Bockoc and C. J. Allen, factory representatives.

Carload shipments of Frigidaire products for the first 20 days of June were 8 per cent higher than they were during the same period of 1931.

Carload shipments of Frigidaire products for the first 20 days of June were 8 per cent greater than they were during the same period of 1931, according to Mr. Bocock.

"A good share of these shipments represented merchandise that was urgently needed by our 5,000 dealers to meet customer demand," said Mr. Bocock. "Frigidaire dealers with only a reasonable amount of stock in dealers' hands and as a result, any marked increase in business is immediately reflected in shipment records."

SILVERMAN TAKEN TO FEDERAL PRISON

Louis O. Silverman, 49, of 883 Parkway drive, alleged "society bootlegger," who was sentenced to 18 months in federal penitentiary by Judge Underwood in United States district court Friday for violation of the national prohibition act. Tuesday he was committed to federal custody here, bringing to a close a lengthy fight on his part to avoid a prison sentence.

Silverman entered a plea of guilty on April 21 to an indictment charging a number of sales and possession of liquor. Sentence was twice deferred by Judge Underwood at the request of the defendant's attorneys, who said that Silverman's wife was in ill health. Sentence was passed Friday, the court ruling it began immediately.

Silverman remained in the Fulton tower from Friday until Tuesday, the delay being caused when government authorities were undecided whether he should receive a life sentence in the Chillicothe (Ohio) reformatory, or the federal penitentiary here.
